Foodscaping is the mixing of edible plants with your landscape. Any sunny area can be a foodscape whether you live in a townhouse or apartment!

Brie Arthur is originally from southeastern Michigan, she studied Landscape Design and Horticulture at Purdue University. She worked as a professional plant propagator at Plant Delights Nursery and Camellia Forest Nursery before transitioning her focus to Green Industry communications.

As a professional garden industry communicator Brie is leading the national suburban Foodscape movement.

In her spare time she is also a(n):

- Writer for Meister and GIE Media
- International speaker
- Correspondent on PBS television show Growing A Green World
- National Director for GWA (Garden Writer of America) Region IV (Southeast USA)
- Founder of Emergent: A Group for Growing Professionals
- Member of the International Plant Propagator Southern Region Executive Committee
- Marketing Chair for IPPS International Board.
